

Public Educational Field Day on Soil Health and Climate-Smart Agriculture Evaluations and a new cotton farmer network in the San Joaquin Valley

September 13, 2019

10:00 AM to 1:00 PM

We invite folks to an important information sharing opportunity hosted by Gary Martin at Pikalok Farming - Locke Ranch, 3635 Bass Avenue, Mendota, CA

- Work that is being done at their farm on soil health and climate-smart agriculture will be highlighted and discussed.
- Information will be presented on the impacts of soil health management and opportunities for reducing GHG emissions.
- A new farmer network aimed at providing opportunities for cotton farmers to share information on alternative crop production to learn and become better aware of locally-derived information on soil care and practices aimed at decreasing emissions.

Further information is available by calling or emailing Jeff Mitchell at (559)303-9689 or jpmitchell@ucdavis.edu

University of California
Agriculture and Natural Resources

